as we see it

Ed Murrow's hour-long See It Now documentary on Berlin already has earned every possible word of praise in the critics' vocabulary. It was television at its finest, a journalistic achievement that won the respect of even the most cynical newspapermen. All we can add to what has been said about TV's shining hour is a word of respect and admiration for the sponsor, the Aluminum Company of America, which paid for the intelligent and thorough reportorial job.

The Berlin story, it is to be hoped, was a glimpse of the tremendous information impact that television will have in the future. Mere narrations of today's news events, even on newsreel film, do not by themselves make for an informed citizenry. Only by means of such thoughtfully produced documentaries as Crusade in Europe, Victory At Sea, and Murrow's programs on Korea and Berlin, can television present today's world to Americans in proper perspective.

This task, in our opinion, is just as important as TV's entertainment job. The networks know how to produce good comedy, entertaining variety and absorbing drama. Murrow and his co-producer, Fred W. Friendly, have come up with a pattern for informing—and doing it in a relatively short space of time. All too little, incidentally, has been said about Mr. Friendly, the invisible half of the team who must share in the Berlin story accolade.

It is unfortunate that many youngsters, whose minds are uncluttered by prejudice and misinformation, were denied seeing the Berlin documentary and will not see future See It Now offerings. In the East, at least, the program has been scheduled at 10:30 P.M. on Tuesdays, a school night. One less comedy or crime show at an earlier hour in the CBS weekly schedule would make room for See It Now, a program that should be a must for junior high and high school students.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

The morning Arthur Godfrey Time may be extended to include Saturdays. GODFREY, under present plans, will emcee the show four mornings each week, with ROBERT Q. LEWIS taking over the other two days.

Wait until parents and educators get a load of this: SLAPSIE MAXIE ROSENBLOOM, the malapropping ex-boxer, tapped as quizmaster for a new kids' panel show titled Whom Am I. It's slated for Saturday mornings on ABC, starting in November . . . DAGMAR, of all people, being talked up to assume the title role in the forthcoming TV version of Tillie, the Toiler.

MONTGOMERY CLIFT being sought for the starring role in the kickoff show of U. S. Steel Hour Oct. 27. It's the story of a GI war prisoner in Korea who was subjected to the Communist brainwashing . . . MEL TORME and JO STAFFORD may be new additions to the CBS roster of singers. The network wants Mel three times weekly and Jo the other two nights in the 7:15 to 7:30 p.m. period.

GEORGE ABBOTT, the noted Broadway producer, invited to stage a mammoth Christmas TV show, similar in scope to last June's Ford anniversary program . . . ABC mulling plans to televise an hour-and-a-half version of the "Ziegfeld Follies" on Thanksgiving Day and is seeking GINGER ROGERS as star. If the sponsor approves, a similar extravaganza will be telecast on four major holidays each year.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON is bringing the private-eye character he played in his latest movie, "Vice Squad," to TV. A pilot film on the projected series is being produced in Hollywood . . . Contrary to previous reports, GARY STEVENS is not resigning as producer of 20 Questions. He'll handle that show, as well as the new one on which he is now working.

RALPH EDWARDS, in an attempt to prevent his subjects on This Is Your Life from being tipped off in advance, plans to originate the program this season from various cities. EDWARDS also will de-emphasize show business personalities, bringing on more private citizens as subjects . . . CBS flooded with viewer requests to return Meet Millie to TV and is scouting a suitable time period.

Bishop Sheen's New Book

His telecasts, now in print, merge drama, faith and fun

BISHOP Fulton J. Sheen, who returns to the Du Mont network and his Life Is Worth Living program this Tuesday night, has made available for publication the nearly 60,000 words which he used in presenting last year's series of 26 telecasts.

The volume, which presents the Bishop's programs intact and unedited, is being published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., New York. The publishing firm has announced that some 150,000 copies are being printed for publication Oct. 20.

The book bears the same title as Bishop Sheen's program, Life Is Worth Living, and represents for the first time the publication in printed form of a complete year's TV programs.

Not a word has been changed, which is remarkable since Bishop Sheen used no teleprompters, cue cards, scripts or even notes when he originally gave his talks. The book, compiled by viewing films of all Sheen's programs, was virtually dictated by him. Publication then followed without so much as an aside remark to his celebrated "angel" being altered or edited out.

In his preface, however, Bishop Sheen explains with a light note of self-deprecation that he has made one substantial change. He writes, "The author, while willing to have his words recorded in print, was reluctant to perpetuate his abominable drawings on the blackboard. In deference to the good taste of the readers, he asked his friend Dik Browne to redo the drawings . . ."

The Sheen personality is as varied as a kaleidoscope. His humor runs the gamut from brilliantly funny observations on human nature to gags of immemorial vintage ("I heard of an Englishman once who, whenever he ate alphabet soup, dropped all his H's.") When he needs to point up a tenet he's apt to quote anyone from Homer to Browning to Durante—all of whom have been mentioned during his Tuesday night series.

He has no use for Freudianism, Karl Marx, Stalin, Lenin, Communists,

Satan or chicken ("I don't like chicken. Every five years I announce that so when I am invited out, I will not get chicken.") He has a deep admiration for Lincoln, St. Thomas Aquinas, whom he regards as the "greatest mind that ever lived," and Milton Berle ("I bear the deepest affection for Milton Berle," he once said, "and I love his program intensely.")

It would be difficult to single out the finest or most inspiring talk of last season's varied collection of Sheen gems. Certainly the most dramatic of the series occurred last February 24 when the Bishop gave a hair-raising reading of the burial scene from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. Unbridling his celebrated voice and employing his dramatic flair to the hilt, Bishop Sheen said, "Stalin must one day meet his judgment," then proceeded to liken him to Caesar. Substituting Beria for Cassius, Malenkov for Mark Anthony and Vishinsky for Brutus, Sheen read the burial scene in dramatic, almost frightening tones. A few days later Stalin suffered his eventually fatal stroke. Nine days after the broadcast he was announced dead. There has never been a comment from the Sheen headquarters on the amazing coincidence.

Although his mail (estimated at 8,000 letters per week) is kept on a strictly personal basis, it is understood that Sheen's address entitled For Better or For Worse moved a tremendous number to write. Allowing that there are tensions in marriage and that they will only be solved ultimately in Heaven, Sheen had forceful advice for trouble in marriage. "Stick it out!" he said. "Remain faithful! Why? Suppose the husband instead of being an alcoholic, had pneumonia. Would the wife nurse him and care for him? If he is a sinner he has moral pneumonia and is spiritually sick; why abandon him?"

The Sheen talks are spiced with varying moods. The beauty of his prose particularly flows in the chapters entitled How Mothers Are Made, Woman at the Well (a parable) and Pain and Suffering.

Lashes At Communism

When the eloquent Sheen is not tossing playful asides about his blackboard-cleaning angel, when he is not upbraiding the proud or praising the long-suffering, when he is not explaining the Redemption or showing how to overcome anxieties and fears, when he is not presenting his formula for making life worth living—then he is attacking his greatest foe: Communism.

Bishop Sheen has more to say about Communism than any other subject on his weekly series. Twelve of his 26 talks were devoted either partially or in their entirety to blasting the Communistic state, the Russian leaders or to lamenting the hopeless role of the individual under a Communistic yoke. "Be not deceived," said Sheen on one particular program. "Remember when Russia talks peace it is a tactic and a preparation for war. Russia says it wants peace. The peace it wants is a piece of China, a piece of Hungary, a piece of Poland. A peace overture of Russia will be the beginning of another Pearl Harbor."

Some typical quotes from the telecasts include:

ON BOREDOM: A university kept dogs for experimental purposes in two separate cages. In one cage were dogs without fleas; in the other were dogs with fleas who were waiting to be dipped and "defleaed." The professors noted that the dogs with fleas were more tranquil than the dogs without fleas, because they had something to keep them busy. The moral is not to have fleas but the moral is to have something to do and live for.

ABOUT MISUSE OF SCIENCE: It is indeed regrettable that the first general knowledge the world had of atomic energy was when it wiped out a Japanese city. Morse's first message by telegraph was to praise God, not to deny Him. The first use of electrical energy was not to electrocute a man.

ABOUT FALSE PRIDE: Why is it that beggars always use tin cups? It is because they appeal to the vanity of the giver who likes to hear the clink of the coin in the cup. In churches we always use plush-bottomed collection baskets because people should seek to make no noise when they give, but let it be known to God alone.

ON MOTHERS: A tiny ball of unconsciousness needs much mother care to become all that God destined it to be. Maybe that is why mothers are against war; they realize better than anyone else how long it takes to make a man.

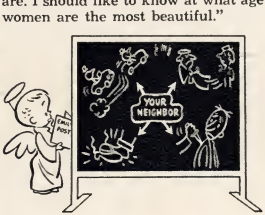
ABOUT MEMORY: When we want to memorize something, we often make an association in our intellect with something we already know. I remember once I was to meet a man by the name of Lummock. My secretary said, "Now, remember that his name rhymes with stomach." Do you know what I called him?—Kelly!

ON PURITY: Purity is a reverence for mystery. Why is it no one is ever scandalized at seeing people eat in public? There are some who do not mind eating in the front window of Childs' on Fifth Ave. in New York. Most people in Paris eat outside. But why is it that we are scandalized by seeing people make love in public? Is a manifestation of affection wrong? Certainly not! Why then are we shocked? We are shocked because there is something so personal, so intimate, so sacred and mysterious about love that we do not want to see it vulgarized, profaned and made common.

ON COMMUNISM: The Communist error is to believe that if all people share the same property they will therefore be brothers. This is a grave fallacy; sharing the same apple does not make men brothers, but if men are brothers they will share the same apple.

ON IRISH BLARNEY: There is a difference between blarney and boloney. Blarney is the varnished truth; boloney is the unvarnished lie . . . To tell a woman who is 40, "You look like 16," is boloney. The blarney way of saying it is, "Tell me how old you are. I should like to know at what age women are the most beautiful."

Bishop Sheen at his famous blackboard; he had Dik Browne do illustrations for book, two of which are reprinted here.



HOW TO WATCH FOOTBALL ON TV

By Herman Hickman

TV Team: Betty Furness and Herman Hickman.

FOR TWENTY YEARS now, I've had to watch football from the worst seat in the stadium—the players' bench.

This year, I'm watching professional football on TV. Pull up an easy chair, turn the lights down a bit, and I'll join you in the living room while we watch the game together. Just tell those Monday morning quarterbacks not to talk too much—we're going to enjoy the game.

I understand we're going to have plenty of company. For the first time, professional football will be seen in millions of homes all over the country. Westinghouse will telecast a schedule of games for 11 consecutive weekends over a Du Mont hook-up of some 87 stations.

Many of these games have even been rescheduled from Sunday to Saturday night, to fit into the TV schedule. The experts tell me a video audience of 35,000,000 people is expected to see these colorful contests between the crack professional teams.

Now some of these viewers haven't watched football since their high school days and others wouldn't know a forward pass from a backward glance, so I think a few tips might help in the enjoyment of the game.

Sometimes this means starting at the beginning. I tried this once with a Yale team. We had struggled through a disastrous practice session when everything went wrong. Finally, I called the squad together and said, "Let's start at the beginning and work on our fundamentals." I held up the pigskin for everyone to see and intoned, "This-is-a-football". From the back of the room, an anxious voice chirped up, "Not so fast, coach, not so fast." I'm not going to get that fundamental with you, but I will go slowly.

Uniforms Are Telegenic

We're seeing our game on TV from the best seat in the stadium. By the very nature of TV, we'll catch all the important action. All possible arrangements have been made to help us enjoy the game. The stadium has been studied before game time and the best camera locations determined. The TV announcers and directors have scouted the teams to anticipate plays. Even the pro football uniforms have been planned to be telegenic. Colors have been chosen that will televise sharply and not grey out on the screen. And the teams have arranged for contrasting uniforms so you won't be in danger of confusing the players on one team with those on the other. The numerals on the uniforms have been made larger so you can spot them easier on your TV screen.

I hope you make this a family affair. Football is for everyone. Women make up 44 percent of TV football fans, and children just seem to take to it naturally.

If you have youngsters watching, get a piece of paper and sketch for them the diagram of the playing field, marking it off in yard lines. You might even show the starting formation of the teams. But don't get too technical. You'll find the action of the game alone will keep your family excited and interested.

Learn The Basic Rules

If this is your first acquaintance with pro football, you'll want to know a few rules that differ from those of college or high school football.

1. Goal posts are directly on the goal lines instead of 10 yards behind. This means we've got to watch for more attempts at field goals.

2. In pro football, a play is not over if a ball carrier's knee or any other part of his body hits the ground. If a pass receiver stumbles, he may still get up and run. The play is over only when the officials decide that forward progress has been stopped.

3. Free substitution of players is allowed. This means a team may put in as many substitutes as they choose in a quarter.

4. Almost every pro team uses a variation of the T formation. Keep your eye on the quarterback, directly behind the center. About 95 percent of all plays will start with the ball being snapped to him.

Unless you're an expert at the game, my advice is to keep your eye on the ball-carrier. He's the key to every play. He's trying to fool the other team and may fool you, too. This boy is full of tricks. Watch him closely. The TV camera will help you by following the main action around the ball-carrier.

Professional football has developed passing to a fine art. The first pass in this game may catch you off-guard, but in a few minutes you'll be able to see a pass play shaping up. Every player's move is a part of a pattern. The TV cameraman has been primed to follow this intricate pattern.

Everyone thrills to a spectacular kick and you'll be seeing plenty of them in TV pro football. Such players as Lou Groza, of the Cleveland Browns, for example, have kicked field goals as far as 50 yards. Get acquainted with the kicking or passing specialties of the players.

Much of the skill of professional football is shown in the intricate defenses that are set up during the game. These defenses will be changed to meet each specific situation as it develops. Sometime in the game, the camera will leave the view of the huddle or other offense action to show you how the team on the defense is adjusting itself to meet the play.

When football scouts for one team are studying a rival's game, they are especially careful to note the recurring "bread-and-butter" plays — the reliable stand-bys the team uses to get out of tight spots. Your TV director has done the same scouting and he is usually able to anticipate these plays and show them shaping up.

It Pays To Be a GOOD BADDIE

Bitin' The Dust Brings In Chips For Kenne Duncan

"I DON'T get the gal but there's sure lots of gold for a nasty, low-down villain like me," admits husky Kenne Duncan, who enjoys the title of "meanest man in the movies."

"It was back in 1950 when I was first called that," he recalls. "Gene Autry and I were in a picture called, The Blazing Sun. In it I was a bank robber on the lam, the worst kind of a heel. During the course of this single story I killed my brother, shot my pal, beat up my friend, murdered the gal's father and tried to punch Autry.

"Gene said, jokingly: 'You're really the meanest man in the movies,' and that's stuck to me since then."

Like every other profitable trade, villainy has to be learned the hard way. Born in Ontario, Canada, 48 years ago, Duncan made his debut on the Broadway stage in 1922 and then went to Hollywood. In 1943, while under contract to Republic Studios, he was asked to fill in as a Western heavy. As a former jockey and steeplechase rider he did so well, Westerns have been his lot ever since.

"One of the most important requisites for a heavy is being able to get along with people with whom you work. You must be liked by the people you 'kill and hurt,' despite the fact that you're always slugging or stealing or looking nasty.

"My audience is mostly kids and they can spot a heavy in a minute if he stretches it. A subtle heavy shouldn't be identified until the hero unmasks him. When you're wearing an eight-day beard—'dog-heavy' stubble, it's called—then it is tough not to give yourself away."

Kids Still Like Him

But all in all, Duncan enjoys being a heavy. "Kids don't resent it at all," he says. "I was afraid that after some 50 pictures with Gene I would be received by them only as the ornery guy who beats him up. But when I'm on a personal appearance tour, they talk to me and ask how we stage our fights, how we throw our punches without getting hurt, if we use live bullets and things like that.

"I always give them the facts and tell them just what happens. I can say that I do a pretty fair movie fight without ever hurting anybody."

Of course, there are some hazards in villainy, such as the time Duncan was knocked unconscious for five minutes by "Sunset" Carson.

Almost A Goner

"Scariest experience I've had took place in The Blazing Sun picture," Duncan reveals. "It was on a narrow-gauge railroad near Lone Pine, with the train going at about 40 miles an hour. The action called for me to knock Autry down, then run and jump over the space between cars to the gondola car. If I missed I would have been a goner, sure. I suggested to Autry that we use a net but he laughed it off and so I jumped without it. But I was plenty scared."

Another danger, not nearly as alarming, occurred in Texas during a recent tour. As Duncan was standing with a group of fans a determined-looking Mexican lad approached him.

Duncan with Gene Autry, Sheila Ryan.

"I've seen you in pictures—and you're not so tough!", he said. Then he kicked Duncan in the shins and scooted off.

With all his television and personal appearance activities, Duncan leads a busy life. A veteran horseman, he owns his own stable, enjoying riding for sheer pleasure. As a sharpshooter, he is much in demand for exhibitions.

Duncan recently returned to Hollywood from an extended tour of Japan, where he also starred in a Nipponese movie, "Tokaido Road." The Japanese are taking to sagebrush flickers eagerly, he reports, and his personal appearances in 49 cities there were acclaimed.

The Daiei Studios of Kyoto released his film. The story placed Duncan in Japan's feudal days and had him shooting top-knots off the heads of samurai villains to rescue the damsel in distress. Duncan co-starred with Shizuko Kasagi, who is called the "Martha Raye of Japan."

Duncan and Autry battle on the front of speeding engine and guess who wins?

Shore and Stewart Star on WMAQ Shows

by WM. A. QUE

Look here at whom WMAQ has snagged for your listening pleasure ...two of showdom's surest performers. Enlivening radio is quite a choice topic for the writing fraternity these days. Here's indisputable evidence, however, that WMAQ-NBC is doing . . . not just talking.

Stewart

On Sunday nights at 8:30, Jimmy Stewart puts his talents to regular radio workouts as the star of Six Shooter, a story of the Old West presented in adult form. It's replete with action-filled adventure, crises and chases (none of those kid-captivating Western heroics, however). Jimmy Stewart is cast as Britt Poncett, a hard-knuckled law officer. Sure enough, he's the hero — one couldn't expect him to be a villain with that personality.

Incidentally, on October 18 and thereafter, Six Shooter moves into 7:30 PM Sunday spot on WMAQ.

Shore

Roll out the velvet carpet, boys. Chevrolet's Dinah Shore Show is back on WMAQ every Tuesday and Friday evening at 7:15. I can't think of a popular music program that's as safe to recommend as this one. A melodious voice, a lovely lady emcee, competent support—they're all on the Dinah Shore Show. I suppose this appraisal may be a cliche, but it certainly is fitting: Mighty finah to have our Dinah back on the airwaves.

WMAQ rests its case with Shore and Stewart to prove that radio is still lively entertainment and an interesting habit. —Adv.

Judge For Yourself

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

FRED ALLEN has a reputation as a sharp-witted, acerbic comedian which he established on radio and has been trying desperately to uphold on several TV programs during the last few years. Probably, the entire TV industry is behind him in his efforts, hoping he'll make good for the benefit of his sponsor, the industry and the country at large. Unfortunately, his latest effort, Judge for Yourself, doesn't do him justice (NBC).

The show is a Mark Goodson-Bill Todman production. The boys didn't let us down on this one. In fact, they outdid themselves, setting up not the usual single panel but two complete panels. Aside from that, it's just another variety program. Three professional acts appear each week to do their stuff. One panel, composed of members of the studio audience, competes in rating the acts with the second panel, comprising three show business persons.

Allen's main job is to display that famed wit in interviews with the amateur panelists, a la Groucho Marx. He's not above an occasional good-natured insult at the expense of his guests, but generally treats them better than Groucho does. But, as with Groucho, Allen is evidently tipped off in advance as to the profession and other facts about the contestants.

Thus, his witty sayings may be true ad libs—he specializes in that type of humor. But his habit of constantly referring to little cards on his desk and his slow, drawling manner of speech take much of the edge off his humor. He has come up with some gems on the show, but these alone are not enough to make it a good half-hour's entertainment.

If one of the amateur panelists rates the performers in the same order of merit as the pro panel, he wins $1,000. The performers who have appeared to date have been good, solid variety acts. It seems unfair, though, to subject them to this judging routine. An act which has been ranked high for years hardly looks good when it winds up behind a comparative newcomer in the judging.—R. S.

George Jessel Show

FOR A MAN who has been in show business virtually all his life, George Jessel really should know better. The trifling George Jessel Show, (ABC) is far below his talents and capabilities.

The show's basic fault lies in its format. Jessel has long been known as "Toastmaster General of the United States," so it was only natural to peg the show to that gimmick. The set duplicates the speaker's table at a banquet, from which Jessel introduces the acts. That might be okay for a one-shot remote pickup from an authentic banquet, but it wears a trifle thin as a steady TV diet.

Jessel is concentrating mostly on new, young talent for the program. That doesn't prevent him, though, from waxing nostalgic at the drop of a microphone boom. He's a good humorist and he can tell an after-dinner joke with the best of them. But that doesn't excuse his constant references to 20th Century-Fox and Darryl F. Zanuck, his former employers.

The program to date has thrown the spotlight on such tried-and-true performers as Margaret Whiting, Eddie Fisher, Margaret O'Brien and others. Some have scored solidly and others have been only so-so.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

DRAGNET music sweeping the country. Here's the first police record you can play on a juke-box.

A kid's first words used to be Da-da. Now they sound more like Da-da-da-da.

Ray Anthony put the Dragnet music together and Stan Freberg took it apart. It's the first Friday music you hear every day in the week. The tune is so popular, the hipsters are calling it cop-bop. Instead of a four-four beat, this has a police beat.

We've progressed from Swing and Sway with Sammy Kaye to Breaking and Entering with Jack Webb.

This is the first hit tune with a police theme since "Flatfoot Floogie." This may bring back "Police Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone" and "Police Lend a Little Ear to My Pleas." Or even that old detective favorite, "Don't Beat Me, Daddy, I Ate Two of The Bars."

Two jailbirds heard the Anthony version and one of them said: "Listen, dear. They're playing our song."

One guy listened to the Dragnet record 27 times on the juke-box, and then he cracked the case wide open.

Career Girl, Plus

DOROTHY KILGALLEN IS A TRIPLE STAR . . . TV, RADIO AND NEWS

No panel here: Mrs. Richard Kollmar with Richard, Jr., 12, and Jill-Ellen, 10.

VARIOUS reasons have been advanced for the public's continued enchantment with that Sunday night grab bag known as What's My Line? The original and simplest theory holds that people are forever willing to ogle celebrities, especially if they can watch them playing games just as you and your friends. A counterclaim has it that an aura of mystery—is the show phony?—keeps the folks coming back in suspense every week. Another reason has come forward recently—that people watch as a sort of exercise in masochism, groaning with fury at the exasperatingly clever people on the panel. Most frequently singled out for mention in this last regard is the name of Dorothy Kilgallen.

Miss Kilgallen is a certified celebrity. She's been a working newspaperwoman for 22 years. Her gossip column is one of the most popular features of one of the largest evening newspapers in America, the New York Journal-American, and it is also syndicated to many other papers across the U. S. In addition, Dorothy turns out a monthly feature for Cosmopolitan Magazine and co-stars with her husband Dick Kollmar on a daily New York radio show.

But, unquestionably, Dorothy gets her biggest reaction on What's My Line? She plays the game so well that there are inevitably a few skeptics who figure she knows the answers beforehand. And even though she really doesn't, some people resent her for ruthlessly sticking to the game while her co-panelists are willing to frolic and play it for laughs. Dorothy is all business. Mark Goodson, co-producer of the show, admits that they receive some mail charging that Dorothy is tipped off on the answers, but he also says they get little that is adverse to Dorothy herself.

"Dorothy is a girl with tremendous integrity. If we ever tried to give her the answer, she'd quit the show immediately," says Goodson, "Dorothy feels an obligation towards What's My Line? like Ed Murrow does toward the news. Actually, she's the key member of the panel. The show would be a flop if she didn't hold the panel together. She's got an amazing amount of vitality. One night we went out with Dorothy and her husband. We stayed out pretty late and I was useless the next day. But she was up bright and early the next morning for her radio show, with only a couple of hours sleep. It didn't seem to bother her at all. Makes me feel old."

Another frequently heard complaint about Dorothy has to do with her practice of examining the hands and suit labels of contestants. For some reason, this seems to infuriate some viewers. Goodson's explanation, "Dorothy is under direct orders from us to do that. It's just a device to give the show a visual effect and it does help her track down answers. Don't let anybody say that it's intuition that helps Dorothy to play the game so well. She has an astonishingly logical mind and every little bit helps to form a pattern in her mind."

A widely circulated rumor in the business has it that Hal Block, the former enfant terrible of What's My Line?, was fired from the show at Dorothy's insistance. Goodson's reply to this: "It wasn't just Dorothy. The whole panel found Hal a difficult guy to work with. It's an important thing to have a well-balanced panel and Hal just didn't fit in."

Column Is Powerful

Block, as a performer, knows that any sounding off he might do for publication could jeopardize his career, and is keeping quiet. But what complaining he has done in private has been about Miss Kilgallen. It's also said that Block is wary of Miss Kilgallen's power to hit back through her column.

The power of Miss Kilgallen's column is evidenced in the words of one press agent who does business with Dorothy by feeding her items for the column. "Dorothy is a really sweet girl. How could she be anything else when you hear the way she talks about her children. (She has two, a boy and a girl). And she's got an awful lot of integrity as a newswoman. She never prints an item without checking it. But don't try to cross her. She'll cut you dead and then she may write some unnice things about you."

With Walter Winchell now concerning himself largely with National and international affairs, Dorothy has emerged as perhaps the number one straight gossip columnist in the U. S. Like other columnists, one of her devices is to print a blind item, e.g., "What top comic is complaining to friends in a midtown saloon that he is unhappy and is going to commit suicide?" People reading this item can fill in the name and start worrying about their favorite comedian.

Since people are glad to run down people more successful than they are, rumors about Dorothy shouldn't carry too much weight. For example, Dorothy's father is one of the top men in the Hearst news empire, and so the story goes, he is responsible for Dorothy's current success. A fellow Hearstling squelches that one:

"Sure, her father got her a job. She was eighteen years old and a very nice kid. But there's one way to tell a good newspaperman. When something happens, he knows how to get on the phone and call the right people in order to get a good story. It was only a couple of weeks before Dorothy knew who to call. From then on, she made it on her own."

That Dorothy is a sound newshen is evidenced by the fact that she is now being nominated for a Pulitzer Prize for her Coronation coverage.

When Dorothy made her triumphant return to What's My Line? after the Coronation, many viewers detected a new poise about her. When John Daly told her to stand up and show the folks her Coronation gown, Dorothy stood up and blushed like a sweet girl graduate.

Born in Chicago in 1913, Dorothy was raised in Brooklyn where her father's travels had taken him. Her father's enthusiasm for the news business was contagious and so, apparently, was his ability. Dorothy won a by-line two weeks after she started work. She's done stories from all over the world, covered two Coronations, the Jelke trial, murders, and has written her daily column since 1938. Damon Runyon, a fellow Hearstling, once said she was one of the best woman journalists of all time.

According to those close to her, Dorothy just wants to be a good newspaperwoman and not be the subject of controversy. She likes to be liked and is surprised whenever there is a negative reaction to her What's My Line? appearances. But she's now a National celebrity and the public can only respond to what they know of her and since she plays What's My Line? so seriously, there's little occasion for anything but the serious side of her personality to be seen.

Missing—Hal Block (right). He feuded with panel, or was it just with Dorothy?

that funny-looking Lucy

LUCILLE BALL, long one of Hollywood's glamor girls, cashed in on TV, not by being beautiful, but by her willingness to be funny-looking. Aided by the expressive face shown in the photo series above, she has made mugging and slapstick comedy a fine art. The photographer caught Lucille, co-star with husband Desi Arnaz in CBS' I Love Lucy, clowning it up for the enjoyment of America's TV audience. Lucille's idea is that, with luck, anybody can be good-looking, but it takes skill to be funny-looking.

Pioneer-type Lucy: she faces lens in garb that would make Calamity Jane sneer.

Lucy, at left, doesn't look much like the Lucille Ball who graced the Ziegfeld Follies, but scene, like the one below, helps to keep show high in the TV rating list.

HOW TV GOES TO THE ARMED FORCES

Comm. G. S. Hayward, center, and aides check TV film before shipment to Navy, Army and Air Force bases.

MR. ROBERTS, that comic classic about the Navy supply ship, had one particularly choice bit concerning Lt. Roberts' attempt to improve ship's morale by trying to get a new movie to be shown on board ship. It turned out that the only film available was Charlie Chan at the Opera, a venerable item that had been around not more than 15 years.

But that was during the Second World War. And things have changed, it seems. Not only are the armed forces overseas now getting up-to-date movies. They've also become television fans.

A group with the jawbreaking title, "Armed Forces Television Film Recording Selection Group," is responsible for this latest development in GI entertainment. In a cooperative effort between the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the major TV networks and sponsors, films of most of the top shows on TV are now being beamed on movie screens at overseas bases and on ships all over the world.

You've probably noticed on certain TV shows the announcement that the show you have just seen will soon be seen by troops overseas. The AFTVF-RSG, as the film selection group is never called, is the outfit that procures these films. Their job is to select the TV shows they find the most entertaining for showing to servicemen and then to see what they can do about getting them.

It all started about three years ago. At that time, representatives of the services suggested to the networks that it would be a good thing if some of the top TV shows could be filmed for the boys overseas. A touch of home and all that. The networks were happy to cooperate and passed the idea on to the sponsors. The sponsors cheerfully went along with what was not only good public relations, but also sound patriotism.

Since then, it's been a matter of splendid cooperation between the services, the networks and the sponsors, with the sponsors footing the major part of the bill.

Commander G. S. Hayward of the Navy is the current chairman of the TV Selection Group, a job which rotates among the services every six months. The films are allocated equally to the Navy, the Army and the Air Force, with the Navy films going to the Motion Picture Exchange at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and the Army and Air Force films to the Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service in Manhattan. The sponsors are responsible for the making and editing of the films, leaving the Navy, the Army and Air Force the job of adding leader to the films plus packaging and shipping.

While the services are very happy with the cooperation of the sponsors, they would still like to receive more of these TV films. However, a quick run-down of shows already being seen regularly overseas indicates the services are getting a fair sampling of the type of TV the people back home are getting:

Jack Benny, Hit Parade, I Love Lucy, Milton Berle, Dinah Shore, Caesar and Coca, Ed Sullivan, Private Secretary, Mr. Peepers, Comedy Hour, My Friend Irma, Amos 'n' Andy, Man Against Crime, Doorway to Danger, Manhunt and Suspense. They've just started to get the Arthur Godfrey shows, and now they've got their eye on some of the new shows appearing this fall.

The services have encountered some difficulty in getting enough prints of any one show to go around. They feel that the good will a sponsor receives when it is announced his program will be shown to men overseas more than offsets cost of the film.

Hats off to fall

JUNE LOCKHART, one of television's dramatic stars and a panelist on NBC's Who Said That? likes hats that fit well down on the head, instead of perching precariously. "I like to be comfortable," June says, "and to know that I won't have to go chasing down the street after my hat."

The hats modeled by June are from John Frederics' special line of "Charmers," designed to remain firmly anchored.

Although most of this season's offerings are tiny, the woman who likes the feel of a hat on her head or needs a brim to frame her face can satisfy fashion's whims and her own vanity with any in this group. Two of them give the impression of smallness without being small. The brimmed cloche achieves a happy medium in size and a dashing effect.

The most cheerful news about this season's hats is the vibrant color—the rich red of the bonnet etched in black braid; the intense turquoise of the pliable, brimmed cloche; and the bold, striking colors of the beret. Two or three such hats in your wardrobe will match or contrast with almost every combination.

A good way to revive last year's favorite, after it is blocked and steamed into shape, is to tack on bands of contrasting colors. Try a braid of leather strips or black ball fringe (sold by the yard in upholstery shops) for a touch of distinction.

A half hour spent sewing snaps onto hat bands will reward you with as many different outlooks for one hat as you have outfits. Add a dash of evening dazzle to a hat like the turquoise "Charmer" with a velvet band embroidered with dime store jewels—the flashier the better. With this hat, select the simplest dress you own, dark preferably, and wear with it one small pin or a single strand of lustrous pearls.

IN THE CAST

NORMAN "RED" BENSON, genial master of ceremonies of NBC's musical quiz, Name That Tune, is one of the company of television performers who successfully have made the transfer from radio.

In his role as moving spirit of the Tune program, in which contestants are required to guess the titles of hauntingly familiar melodies, Benson sings an occasional lyric in any one of 30 languages or dialects. Sharing in the success of the show are Vicki Mills, featured vocalist, and Harry Salter, producer and musical director of the program.

Man Of Many Talents

But Benson, who was born in Columbus, O., in 1917, and who grew up in Philadelphia, has tried a little bit of everything on his road to television acclaim. His studio biography lists some of these activities as: elevator operator, professional hypnotist, band leader, Shakespearean actor, canary-peddler, fireman, window trimmer, prize fighter, light opera singer, vegetable huckster and hat factory employee, all fine basic training for television.

Red left Ohio State University to organize a band and made his radio debut as an announcer in Philadelphia at 19. He was with Station WAAT, in Newark, N. J., when he enlisted in the Navy in 1944.

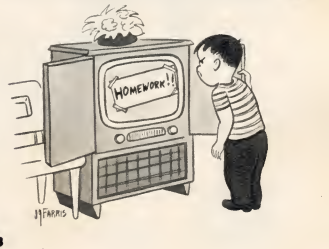
Once Was Comedian

He tried his hand at night club work as a comedian after leaving the service in 1946 and, at the same time, began his successful climb in radio and television. His broadcast and telecast programs have included: Surprise, Red Benson's Almanac, Red Benson's Movie Matinee, Take a Number, Sing for Your Supper, Julie and Red, Prince Charming, Take Your Pick, Doorway to Fame and Old Knick Music Hall.

Married 11 years, Red and his wife Fleurette (whom he calls Flippy), live in Great Neck, L. I. They have two children, Susan, 8, and Stephen, 2.

Red Benson with Vicki Mills: he tried many jobs on way to television success.

The tunes that contestants try to guess on Red's television show may some day include some of Benson's own compositions. An ambitious songwriter, he already has had several tunes published, including "You," "Slap Her Down Again," "Always You" and "Rosalinda."



—the most frustrated character on the American scene since Henry Bulbsnatcher won a lifetime supply of light bulbs on TV's "Beat The Meter" show. Everyone knows Charlie. He leaps up at station-break time —wildly switches from channel to channel in a vain attempt to get a glimpse of each program before it starts. Fortunately, there's a pleasant remedy for this growing technological disease of channel-chasing.....
